Summary of Legislation: (Amended) The bill redefines the length of the chute. The bill requires a candidate to indicate on a declaration of candidacy which option the candidate is using to determine party affiliation. The bill authorizes a county to use an electronic voting system for voting by absentee ballot in the office of the circuit court clerk.

Effective Date: July 1, 2003.

Explanation of State Expenditures: (Revised) Summary: Under the bill, State Forms CAN-2 and CAN-42 would have to be revised to reflect the option a candidate claims party affiliation under current law. The expenditures required could be absorbed within the Indiana Election Division's budget.

Explanation of State Revenues:

Explanation of Local Expenditures: (Revised) Summary: Under the bill, counties would have the option via ordinance to use Direct Recording Electronic (DRE) voting systems for absentee ballot voting. The provision could allow counties that already employ DRE machines for voting to reduce expenditures. Savings would occur from reduced production of paper ballots and secrecy envelopes to tabulate absentee votes. Additionally the measure would allow county clerks with DRE machines a reduction in administrative time, as a voting card for a DRE machine would require less time to program than current methods for tabulating absentee votes.

One county reported that a savings of approximately $480 to $640 per election just from the elimination of paper ballots would occur with conversion to DRE machines to tabulate absentee votes. The above estimate is based on approximately 1,500 - 2,000 paper ballots commercially printed at $0.32 per ballot per election.
